Yes. The results delivered by this research are measurable, scientifically proven and are not affected by physiological factors (as is the case with the use of questionnaires). In addition, it can deliver statistical analysis and specific results, contrary to the traditional-conventional methods of quality evaluation. The most important asset is that it mirrors accurately focal areas of interest of the user's eyes.